Director Quotes & Behind the scenes info

- I thought it was funny to give a literal meaning to the psychoanalysis’s “killing the father” ... and as I was getting there, there was something very disturbing in picturing adult murderers when they were kids, because they (we) all were once kids. That’s why I decided to crash the image against the narration, trying to get more violence out of it.
- The hardest was for DOP J.Carlos to operate the camera as if he was an amateur dad recording his children.
